

Primary fieldwork in your locality

CPD Training Courses from the Geographical Association

Birmingham Wednesday 13 June 2012
Cambridge Tuesday 19 June 2012

Target audience

Primary teachers and subject co-ordinators

Overview

This course is designed to support you in creating high-quality fieldwork and mapping activities. In addition to sharing a range of practical ideas, curriculum thinking will be explored to enable you to adapt these experiences to your own setting.

The day will include a mix of presentations, group work and practical activities. Delegates should come prepared to spend some time outdoors... whatever the weather!

Aims and outcomes

The course will explore:

- the role and purpose of fieldwork in the primary curriculum
- what makes for distinctively geographical fieldwork
- how fieldwork can be a stimulus for creative curriculum connections
- the development of mapping skills (graphicacy) as a communication tool
- progression in mapping skills within the primary phase
- the inclusion of map work within the creative (connected) curriculum.

Presenter

Diane Swift, Senior Lecturer in Primary Initial Teacher Education, University of Wolverhampton and Primary Geography Champion
