September Theme

You are what you read: cultural, personal and local identity

In Nursery, we enjoyed and acted out Rosie's Walk by Pat Hutchins, in which Rosie the hen goes for a walk around the farm and never realises that the fox is just failing to grab her at every turn! Then we made up our own walks, and painted whatever it was that failed to grab US!

Millie and Liam went for a walk ...

across the yard
past the puddle
into Breakfast Club
along the corridor
up the ramp
and back to Nursery

(Behind them all the way crept a black monster with a round face and creepy hands.

It fell over in the yard, and ended up in the puddle.

The door to Breakfast Club slammed in its face, and it was left out in the yard in the rain all alone.)

Kieran and Candice went for a walk ...

into the yard in the sunshine
round the puddle
over the road
to the farm
and back to Nursery
in time for milk and play

(Behind them were a lion and a tiger with big teeth and huge claws, all yellow and orange and fierce.

When the children went out, they didn't notice the fierce animals, and the lion and the tiger pounced but they fell into the puddle.

When the children crossed the road, the lion and the tiger got stuck on the wrong side because of all the cars, and they never got to the farm at all.

When the children come back into school, they let go of the door and it slammed in the faces of the lion and the tiger, who were stuck outside with their faces pressed against the glass!)
